

I t is not the first time I live and work abroad but it is the first time I feel that my needs and growth -personally and professionally- are as important to the employers. I am so grateful to find a school where the Montessori principles are followed in and out of the classroom. It is not the lack of challenges that makes this school a great workplace, but its supporting and trusting environment where people are encouraged to ask for help, to get together as a group and figure out how to better serve the child.

Thank you for everything EMC team :) ”
