

“Aicha is passionate about providing authentic Montessori education for the families of Morocco, but what impresses me most is her commitment to achieving that goal by supporting the staff of the school. It is easy to fall into the trap of thinking of a school as a business and staff as part of the machinery, judging efficiency and condemning any difficulties. Aicha understands that the preparation of the adult is an ongoing process and that we must all develop a friendly relationship with error. She has worked hard to create a school culture of friendship and support in which we are all learning and we are encouraged to seek help when it is needed.”
